What happens when I die, or on the death of another policyholder?

The treatment of your policy when a death occurs depends on whether there are surviving policyholders.

If a policyholder has died and at least one policyholder is still alive, the bond will continue and will automatically transfer to the surviving policyholder(s).

If the last policyholder has died, the bond will continue until the end of the 99-year term. Ownership of the bond will pass to one of the following parties:

- ▶ If there is a nominated beneficiary, ownership will be transferred to them.
- ▶ If the bond is subject to a trust, then the bond continues to be owned by the trustees of the trust*.
- ▶ In all other cases, ownership will be transferred to the legal personal representatives of the deceased policyholder's estate. They can then choose whether to:
 - keep the bond and appoint a beneficiary to become the policyholder by executing a deed of assignment,
 - or
 - encash the bond to pay the proceeds to your estate's beneficiaries.

* the legal personal representative of the last trustee will appoint replacement trustees when the last trustee dies.
